

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Thursday, February 25

1999 3

Griner to be honored by Girls Inc.

Marshall Center Deputy Director Carolyn Griner will be honored Thursday, March 18, at the Marriott Hotel during a luncheon hosted by Girls Incorporated of Huntsville. Griner will receive the "She Knows Where She's Going Award." The award honors women who, in their personal and professional lives, serve as role models to girls. Other honorees will be Huntsville Mayor Loretta Spencer and Janet Martin, director of public relations, Calhoun Community College. This is the sixth year local women have been honored by the organization. Ticket cost is $25 and may be purchased by calling 851-9911.

National Engineer's Week Feb. 21-27

All-hands meeting
8 a.m. March 1 in Morris Auditorium

NASA/AIAA Advanced Propulsion Workshop to be held April 5-8

The 1999 NASA/American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Advanced Propulsion Workshop will be held April 5-8 at the Tom Bevill Center, Sparkman Drive, Huntsville. Marshall Center Director Art Stephenson will speak. Registration will be paid for Marshall employees. Contact: Dr. Chris Barret, general chairperson, at 4-7118, or e-mail to: Chris.Barret@msfc.nasa.gov